Good morning,

I spoke with Mr. Macloed yesterday at just after 2pm. He called me at the office just before I left for the day.

He informed me of the following;

he does require open heart surgery. This was confirmed by Dr Morgan, a heart specialist at Sunnybrook Hospital on Monday March 5th.

The surgery will be performed within the next 3-4 weeks, by Dr. Frenes at Sunnybrook. He has to undergo a series of 4 pre surgery tests, the first of which is now scheduled for Monday March 12th, the day of trial.

He has been told by doctors that he will be in hospital for approximately 5-7 days following the surgery, assuming there are no complications, followed by a period of convalescence at home of approximately a month.

That puts him in a position of being able to attend court sometime around late May, early June 2012. That's if everything goes well and he recovers as planned. He is 81 so really, anything could happen.

All of this information can be confirmed by doctors notes or letters, however, he is not able to obtain anything in writing that can be forwarded to the court for this morning. He is currently resting with friends somewhere up north until he attends the hospital on Monday. and provided me with two phone numbers where he can be reached ([REDACTED])

I have no proof beyond his word at this point, that any of this is true. I also have no evidence to suggest he is lying and I can only pass along the information that I'm being provided. He reiterated his strong desire and commitment to attend court and have his opportunity to testify in regards to this case.
